The Inspector in this case went on leave for two months from 2-4-35. He was recalled before the expiry of his leave and he joined duty on the afternoon of 26-5-35. The period by which the leave was curtailed was only 6 d.

TA Rule 57

The rule lays down that if the period by which the leave is curtailed is not less than a month, the officer is entitled to T.A. If the period by which his leave is curtailed is less than a month, T.A. may be allowed at the discretion of the Local Govt. Apparently the power to grant T.A. in the latter case has been retained with Govt. so that it may be exercised only in exceptional cases and it does not appear that it should be sanctioned as a matter of course.

The grant of the concession may be justified in a case in which an officer foregoes a major portion of the leave taken by him even though the period by which the leave is curtailed is less than a month. For example, if an officer takes one month's leave and is recalled after enjoying only one week, it may be hard to refuse T.A. on the ground that the period by which leave was curtailed was less than a month. In the present case, the officer enjoyed 1 month and 25 days out of the 2 months' leave and it does not appear that the case is exceptional.

Yes. No hardship has been caused by asking him to join duty six days earlier. GS/24.7.35
